We Understand How to Create Safer, More Profitable Farms.

Kevin DeGroot, a Washington dairy farmer, hasn't had an L&I claim in years and his CameraScan video surveillance contributes to that by providing recorded evidence of operations to defend against false claims (like slip-and-fall incidents) that can be a financial catastrophe for small farms. He's also able to monitor key areas of his farm for compliance and operational efficiency.

“At first I thought installing cameras was going to be a fight—that they would think I didn't trust them. It's not that—I want to know they're safe and that everything is happening according to protocol so my business is secure. Because, if I still have a job, then they still have a job! Now they love the cameras being on!”
